

Standard NoFlip

The grid world environment is 10x10. Green cells are free space, and yellow cells are obstacles. Black dots represent robots, and white dots represent goals. A pink square highlights the robot at row 7, column 4.

The grid world environment is a 10x10 grid. Green cells represent free space, and yellow cells represent obstacles. A black circle represents the robot, and a white circle represents the goal. The robot is at (6, 3). The goal is at (1, 5). A pink square highlights the cell at (6, 3).

A 10x10 grid world environment. The grid has green cells and yellow cells. Black dots represent obstacles. White dots represent the start state. A pink square highlights the goal state at (6, 7).

The grid world environment is 10x10. Green cells are free space, and yellow cells are obstacles. Black dots are robots, and white dots are goals. A pink square highlights the starting position of a robot at row 7, column 4 (0-indexed from top-left).

The grid world environment is represented by a 10x10 grid. Green squares represent free space, while yellow squares represent obstacles. Black circles are located at positions (1,5), (2,8), (3,6), (4,9), (5,3), (6,7), (7,5), (8,8), (9,4), and (10,2) assuming (0,0) is top-left. White circles are located at (1,6), (2,4), (3,3), (3,5), (4,2), (4,4), (4,6), (5,1), (5,4), (5,5), (6,2), (6,4), (6,6), (7,1), (7,3), (7,7), (8,2), (8,4), (8,6), (9,3), and (9,5). A pink square highlights the position at row 7, column 6.